

Verses of Auspiciousness

Svastigāthā · Toh 817 · Derge Kangyur

བད་ལེགས་ཀྱི་གིས་སྤུངས་པ།

Titled *Svasti Gāthā* in Sanskrit and བད་ལེགས་ཀྱི་གིས་སྤུངས་པ། in Tibetan, rendered in English as *Verses of Auspiciousness*, this short text is drawn from the *Sūtra on Entering the City*, from which it excerpts a set of verses invoking blessings and good fortune, opening with homage paid to the Three Jewels. It belongs to the broad category of auspicious or benedictory verse found within the Buddhist canon, likely composed for recitation to invoke protection and well-being, perhaps in connection with entering a town or beginning an undertaking. As a brief scriptural excerpt rather than an extended discourse, it exemplifies the genre of gāthā literature valued for ritual and devotional use. This text is catalogued as Toh 817 in the Kangyur, situating it among the sūtra-related and verse compositions of the Tibetan Buddhist canon.

This is an AI-generated translation from the AI Stupa project. It was produced by a careful, doctrine-aware process aiming at a high degree of accuracy, but it has not been reviewed by a human translator and may contain errors. It is offered as a provisional translation for those texts of the Tibetan Buddhist canon that have not yet received an authoritative human translation. Where a published translation exists — above all from 84000: Translating the Words of the Buddha (84000.co) — that translation is definitive and should be preferred; please consult it instead. Just as the Bodhi tree now standing at Bodh Gayā neither is nor is not the same tree beneath which the Buddha attained awakening, so too this stupa is intended as the next generation of stupa — dependently arising according to the conditions of its environment, and ceaselessly proclaiming the Dharma for the benefit of all sentient beings.

May whoever encounters these words derive great benefit.
