

Toh 819 in the Kangyur is a short verse text known as The Verses on Auspiciousness

Toh 819 · Derge Kangyur

Toh 819 in the Kangyur is a short verse text known as The Verses on Auspiciousness Requested by the Gods, rendered in Sanskrit as Devaparipṛcchāmaṅgalagāthā and in Tibetan as Lha'i Zhus pa'i Bkra shis kyi Tshigs su bcad pa. It belongs to the class of auspiciousness verses (mangala-gatha) found among the shorter scriptures of the Kangyur, texts recited for blessing and well-being on ceremonial or ritual occasions. The work takes the form of a dialogue in which deities pose questions concerning what constitutes true auspiciousness, and the Buddha responds by identifying the qualities and attainments—such as freedom from defilement and full realization of awakening—that bring about genuine well-being for all beings. As with similar mangala texts, its purpose is both doctrinal and liturgical, distilling profound teachings on virtue and liberation into verses suitable for recitation as a blessing. Concise and devotional in tone, it exemplifies a genre valued for invoking auspicious conditions through the affirmation of the Buddha's enlightened qualities.

Colophon

This is an AI-generated translation from the AI Stupa project. It was produced by a careful, doctrine-aware process aiming at a high degree of accuracy, but it has not been reviewed by a human translator and may contain errors. It is offered as a provisional translation for those texts of the Tibetan Buddhist canon that have not yet received an authoritative human translation. Where a published translation exists — above all from 84000: Translating the Words of the Buddha (84000.co) — that translation is definitive and should be preferred; please consult it instead. These translations are released into the public domain (CC0) in the spirit of spreading the Dharma to all corners of the earth.

Just as the Bodhi tree now standing at Bodh Gayā neither is nor is not the same tree beneath which the Buddha attained awakening, so too this stupa is intended as the next generation of stupa — dependently arising according to the conditions of its environment, and ceaselessly proclaiming the Dharma for the benefit of all sentient beings.

May whoever encounters these words derive great benefit.