The Dhāraṇī Called "Compassion Without Delay"

Toh 908 · Derge Kangyur

སྙིང་རྗེ་མི་བཤོལ་བ་ཞེས་བ་བྱའོ་གི་ཟངས།

Compassion Without Delay, known in Tibetan as Snying rjes mi bshol ba, is a short dhāraṇī devoted to the bodhisattva Avalokiteśvara, the great being renowned for his boundless compassion. It opens with homage to the Three Jewels, to seventy million perfect buddhas, and to Avalokiteśvara as the one who frees beings from harm, pacifies illness, turns back hostile spirits, and rescues those caught in the eight unfavorable states. It then presents a mantra of rhythmic, repeating syllables, together with heartfelt petitions asking the Great Compassionate One to keep the reciter in mind and to act swiftly on their behalf. This work is Toh 908 in the Kangyur, where it belongs among the dhāraṇī texts, the collection of sacred incantations recited for protection, healing, and blessing.

In the Tibetan language: The Dhāraṇī Called "Compassion Without Delay."

Homage to the Three Jewels!
Homage to the seventy million perfect buddhas!
Homage to the bodhisattva, the great being, noble Avalokiteśvara, possessor of great compassion, who frees from all harm, who completely pacifies all illness, who decisively turns back all bhūtas, and who truly rescues sentient beings fallen into the eight unfavorable states!

Having paid homage to him, I shall recite this dhāraṇī called "Great Compassion Without Delay," spoken by noble Avalokiteśvara:

You who possess great compassion, please keep me in mind!

Namely: oṃ jata jata jiti jiti jutu jutu tara tara tiri tiri turu turu kala kala kili kili kulu kulu

You who possess great compassion, keeping in mind the assembly of the tathāgatas, please come!

cata cata citi citi cutu cutu

Keeping in mind the cloud of aspirations of all the bodhisattvas, you who possess great compassion, please come quickly!

rala rala rili rili rulu rulu

Please arise from the ground of meditative concentration, liberation, meditative absorption, and the attainments!

cala cala cili cili culu culu bodhi bodhi ehi ehi buddha buddha

By the truth of the Buddha, the truth of the Dharma, and the truth of the Saṅgha, please arise, please arise! With great loving-kindness, please turn back all bhūtas! With the cloud of great compassion, please completely pacify all my illnesses!

bhuna bhuna bibhuna bibhuna mathā mathā pramatha pramatha

Please arise, please arise! Come here, come here! Please fulfill my wishes! Please purify my karma!

The dhāraṇī called "Compassion Without Delay" is complete.

Translator's Notes

• The title phrase "mi bshol ba" literally means "not postponing" or "not delaying." I have rendered it as "Compassion Without Delay," meaning compassion that acts at once on behalf of beings.
