The Dhāraṇī of Noble Tārā, which may be rendered in Sanskrit as Āryatārādhāraṇī and in Tibetan as 'Phags ma sgrol ma'i gzungs, is a very brief incantation text devoted to the female bodhisattva Tārā. After paying homage to the Three Jewels and to the noble Avalokiteśvara, the great compassionate bodhisattva, it presents a single mantra built on Tārā's characteristic syllables, tāre tuttare ture. The mantra calls on her to crush, immobilize, bewilder, and bind all malevolent and hostile forces on behalf of the reciter. The work is Toh 1001 in the Kangyur, where it belongs to the class of dhāraṇī texts, the short protective spells gathered in the canon's compendium of dhāraṇīs.

Homage to the Three Jewels.

It was produced by a careful, doctrine-aware process aiming at a high degree of accuracy, but it has not been reviewed by a human translator and may contain errors. It is offered as a provisional translation for those texts of the Tibetan Buddhist canon that have not yet received an authoritative human translation. Where a published translation exists — above all from 84000: Translating the Words of the Buddha (84000.co) — that translation is definitive and should be preferred; please consult it instead. Just as the Bodhi tree now standing at Bodh Gayā neither is nor is not the same tree beneath which the Buddha attained awakening, so too this stupa is intended as the next generation of stupa — dependently arising according to the conditions of its environment, and ceaselessly proclaiming the Dharma for the benefit of all sentient beings.

May whoever encounters these words derive great benefit.
