

The Noble Dhāraṇī Called 'That Which Perfectly Completes the Six Perfections of the Infallible Noose'

Āryāmogha-pāśa-pāramitā-ṣaṭpāripūraka-nāma-dhāraṇī · Toh 687 · Derge Kangyur
འཕགས་པ་དེའི་ཡོད་ཞགས་པའི་ཕི་རའོ་དྲུག་ཀྱི་པ་དབྱ་ཡངས་སུ་སྒྲེས་པར་བརྟེན་པ་ཞེས་བརྒྱུད་གི་ཟུངས།

Toh 687 in the Kangyur is a dhāraṇī text known in Sanskrit as the Āryāmogha-pāśa-pāramitā-ṣaṭpāripūraka-dhāraṇī and in Tibetan as the Phakpa Donyö Shakpé Parol Tu Chinpa Druk Yongsu Dzokpar Jepé Zung, meaning "The Noble Dhāraṇī Called That Which Perfectly Completes the Six Perfections of the Infallible Noose." It belongs to the dhāraṇī class of Buddhist canonical literature, presenting a sacred mantra-formula connected with the bodhisattva Avalokiteśvara and his emblem of the infallible noose, and it frames this dhāraṇī as the very heart of the Perfection of Generosity, promising that even modest acts of giving, when combined with mindful recitation, yield great merit. The text opens with homages to all buddhas, bodhisattvas, and tathāgatas of the three times, situating its practice within the broader Mahāyāna framework of the six perfections. As Toh 687 in the Kangyur, it is preserved among the collections of dhāraṇī texts that form a significant portion of that great Tibetan Buddhist canon of translated Indian scriptures.

In the language of India:
Āryāmogha-pāśa-pāramitā-ṣaṭpāripūraka-nāma-dhāraṇī. In the language of Tibet: The Noble Dhāraṇī Called "That Which Perfectly Completes the Six Perfections of the Infallible Noose."

Homage to all buddhas and bodhisattvas. Homage to all Tathāgatas who have gone to, abide in, and will abide in the three times. Homage to the noble Avalokiteśvara, the bodhisattva and great being endowed with great compassion.

Oṃ amogha-pāśa mahādāna-pāramitā-pāripārāya hūṃ. Dara dara. Bi bidha. Bicaitraḥ sarva-sattvā upabhoga. Sarva-tathāgata mahādāna. Pūja-megha-pravartaya. Tara tara. Tāraya mahāpadma-maṇi hūṃ phaṭ svāhā.

This is the great heart of the Perfection of Generosity of the Infallible Noose. Whoever gives even so little as a mustard seed in generosity and then, with mindfulness alone, recites this seven times, will perfectly complete the Perfection of Generosity — a great sacrificial offering, of vast magical transformation and great extent.

Homage to all Tathāgatas of the three times. Homage to the noble Avalokiteśvara, the bodhisattva and great being endowed with great compassion.

Oṃ amogha-śīla. Saṃbhara saṃbhara. Bhara bhara. Mahāśuddha-sattva-padma-vibhūṣita. Bhuja. Dhara dhara. Samanta-avalokite hūṃ phaṭ svāhā.

This dhāraṇī should be recited with mindfulness twenty-one times, in silence, while observing the eight-branched restoration ceremony (poṣadha) and abiding in the fasting retreat. After that, the heart of the Infallible Noose should be recited. The very moment one has recited it, one will come to be endowed with great purity of moral discipline. The Perfection of Moral Discipline will be perfectly completed. Many pleasing fragrances of moral discipline will arise in the body, and one's renown will spread throughout the worlds of the ten directions. Whoever calls this dhāraṇī to mind day by day will continuously come to have moral discipline entirely purified. Whatever monk has broken and deteriorated in moral discipline — should that monk abide in the fasting retreat and recite this dhāraṇī, the very moment of recitation, moral discipline will be entirely purified and one will come to be endowed with abundant moral discipline.

Homage to all Tathāgatas of the three times. Homage to the noble Avalokiteśvara, the bodhisattva and great being endowed with great compassion.

Oṃ amogha-kṣānti sarva-bodhisattva-kṣamiṇi. Kṣaṇa kṣaṇa mahāmaitri-kāruṇa sarva-sattvata-sala. Mahākāruṇika. Sarva-sattva-kṣamiṇi hūṃ phaṭ svāhā.

By calling this dhāraṇī to mind, one abides with a mind that is endowed with patience, great patience, loving tenderness, and great compassion toward all beings — and this with equanimity. Furthermore, out of loving tenderness, whoever cultivates supreme patience by calling this dhāraṇī to mind on behalf of all those belonging to the animal realm of birth — the deer, the birds, the reptiles, and such, whether they have passed away, now exist, or will be born — that person will be entirely liberated from all hell-beings, hungry ghosts, and animals, and will be fully freed from the mass of beings who dwell in suffering. Until such time as one comes to dwell in a perfectly pure buddha field, the Perfection of Patience will be perfectly completed.

Homage to all Tathāgatas of the three times. Homage to the noble Avalokiteśvara, the bodhisattva and great being endowed with great compassion.

Oṃ mahāvīrya amoghavilokite, bara bara, dṛḍhavīrya mahābala, bala bala, mahābodhyaṃba, balabodhani hūṃ phaṭ svāhā.

The mere act of recollecting this dhāraṇī at all times, or recollecting it even for a single moment with a mind that is completely pure and joyful, will bring about the perfect completion of the Perfection of Diligence. One who holds it in mind and performs even a small number of virtuous deeds will be counted as having performed immeasurable virtue. That person will become endowed with power and will become swift. Until one comes to sit at the heart of awakening, diligence will not decline. One will never be parted from the Perfection of Diligence. One will become of great effort.

Homage to all Tathāgatas of the three times. Homage to the noble Avalokiteśvara, the bodhisattva and great being endowed with great compassion.

Oṃ sarvatathāgata mahāamoghakāruṇā, dhyāna, samādhi, sarvavimokṣa, aprakampyaka, curu curu hūṃ phaṭ svāhā.

If one recollects this dhāraṇī with one-pointed attention and with mindful application before the noble Avalokiteśvara, the Perfection of Meditative Concentration will be perfectly completed in the very moment of that recollection. Furthermore, one will individually and distinctly attain one hundred thousand meditative absorptions. One will enter all buddha fields. In the very moment of mere recitation, one will gain mastery over all meditative absorptions.

Homage to all Tathāgatas of the three times. Homage to the noble Avalokiteśvara, the bodhisattva and great being endowed with great compassion.

Oṃ amogha mahāprajñāpāramitā avabhāsa svabhāva, samantaspharaṇa, buddhi, prasara prasara, samantabuddhi, avalokite, bhagavān prajñāvalokite cakṣuṣaṃ mahāprajñā parmanī mahāprajñā, padmadhāriṇī bhujaṃ hūṃ phaṭ svāhā.

In the very moment of merely recollecting this dhāraṇī, the Perfection of Wisdom will be perfectly completed. The great virtuous wisdom of manifold skillful means and discernment will grow abundantly. One will continually and without interruption be endowed with the wisdom of the ten perfections. One will bring to mind all Tathāgatas of the ten directions and all Tathāgatas of the past and all Tathāgatas who will arise in the future, and will be perfectly endowed with the wisdom of discernment that holds the buddhas in mindful recollection. One will never, even for a moment, be separated from the six perfections. One will not decline from the perfections of generosity, moral discipline, patience, diligence, meditative concentration, and wisdom. Until one perfectly and fully awakens to complete buddhahood, one will never be confused. One will be perfectly endowed with suchness — the reality known as "having genuinely followed the suchness of all phenomena." One will be perfectly replete, endowed with immeasurable intelligence. All Tathāgatas of the ten directions will regard one with favor. All bodhisattvas will hold one in mind with affection.

Here is completed the great dhāraṇī of the noble Amoghapāśa that perfectly fulfills the six perfections.

Translated by the paṇḍita Mañjuśrīvarman and the translator, the monk Lodān Sherab.

Translator's Notes

- The mantra syllables are transliterated as they appear in the Tibetan, which represents a phonetic approximation of Sanskrit. Some reconstructed Sanskrit forms are uncertain at the level of individual syllables, but this does not affect the doctrinal content of the passage. The phrase rendered "reptiles" for རྩོམ་པ་ལྔ་ལྔ་ (literally "belly-goers") refers to creatures that move on their bellies, i.e., reptiles or crawling animals, and is a standard Tibetan taxonomic term for that class. The phrase "sacrificial offering" for རྩོམ་པ་ལྔ་ལྔ་ is a compound meaning a great act of worship-offering; it is used here in the sense of a magnificent offering-gift rather than a ritual sacrifice in any non-Buddhist sense.
- The Sanskrit dhāraṇī strings are transliterated as they appear in the Tibetan; the spelling reflects standard Tibetan rendering of Sanskrit phonology and is reproduced faithfully rather than normalized. The phrase rendered "the great virtuous wisdom of manifold skillful means and discernment" reflects the Tibetan construction joining ṭhabs and śes rab with the attribute of varied virtue and a great mind. The colophon names the translator as Lodān Sherab (blo ldan shes rab), a well-attested Tibetan lotsāwa, and the Indian paṇḍita as Mañjuśrīvarman.

Colophon

This is an AI-generated translation from the AI Stupa project. It was produced by a careful, doctrine-aware process aiming at a high degree of accuracy, but it has not been reviewed by a human translator and may contain errors. It is offered as a provisional translation for those texts of the Tibetan Buddhist canon that have not yet received an authoritative human translation. Where a published translation exists — above all from 84000: Translating the Words of the Buddha (84000.co) — that translation is definitive and should be preferred; please consult it instead. These translations are released into the public domain (CC0) in the spirit of spreading the Dharma to all corners of the earth.

Just as the Bodhi tree now standing at Bodh Gayā neither is nor is not the same tree beneath which the Buddha attained awakening, so too this stupa is intended as the next generation of stupa — dependently arising according to the conditions of its environment, and ceaselessly proclaiming the Dharma for the benefit of all sentient beings.

May whoever encounters these words derive great benefit.