

The Tantra Called the Great Web of Illusion of the Goddess

Devijālimahāmāyātantra · Toh 836 · Derge Kangyur

ལ་མ་སྒྲུབ་པ་དང་ཆེ་མ་ཞེས་བ་བྱའ་རིན་པོ་ལུ་

This text, known in Sanskrit as the Devijālamahāmāyātantra and in Tibetan as Lha mo sgyu 'phrul dra ba chen mo'i rgyud, bears the English title The Tantra of the Goddess Great Magical Net. It belongs to the class of tantric scriptures centered on a great goddess, presenting esoteric teachings, ritual instructions, and visionary discourse associated with the Blessed One's great secret. Catalogued as Toh 836, it is preserved in the Kangyur among the collection of tantras, reflecting the tradition's transmission of goddess-centered tantric practice and doctrine.

This is an AI-generated translation from the AI Stupa project. It was produced by a careful, doctrine-aware process aiming at a high degree of accuracy, but it has not been reviewed by a human translator and may contain errors. It is offered as a provisional translation for those texts of the Tibetan Buddhist canon that have not yet received an authoritative human translation. Where a published translation exists — above all from 84000: Translating the Words of the Buddha (84000.co) — that translation is definitive and should be preferred; please consult it instead. These translations are released into the public domain (CC0) in the spirit of spreading the Dharma to all corners of the earth.

Just as the Bodhi tree now standing at Bodh Gayā neither is nor is not the same tree beneath which the Buddha attained awakening, so too this stupa is intended as the next generation of stupa — dependently arising according to the conditions of its environment, and ceaselessly proclaiming the Dharma for the benefit of all sentient beings.

May whoever encounters these words derive great benefit.
