Toh 837 · Derge Kangyur

Toh 837 in the Kangyur is a tantric scripture belonging to the Nyingma tantra collection, its Tibetan title rendered as Gsang ba'i snying po de kho na nyid nges pa'i bla ma chen po, and it is generally identified with the renowned Guhyagarbha cycle in Sanskrit, the Guhyagarbha-tattvaviniścaya, or in Tibetan the Great Guru Who Ascertains the Suchness of the Secret Essence. It follows immediately upon another work titled Bcom ldan 'das rmongs pa sel ba, "Blessed One Who Dispels Delusion," itself called the Great Magical Net, suggesting this text is closely tied to the Māyājāla tradition of tantras concerned with the secret essence of enlightened body, speech, and mind. As a tantra of the Mahāyoga class, it addresses profound esoteric teachings on the nature of reality, ritual practice, and the secret accomplishment referred to in its concluding verses, where the practice of this hidden attainment is affirmed to be universally efficacious and embodied in the figure of Samantabhadra. Positioned within the Kangyur's tantra section, this text represents one of the foundational scriptures for the Nyingma school's understanding of tantric ontology and practice, transmitting teachings on the primordial nature of mind and phenomena as taught by the Blessed One. Its placement alongside related works in the collection underscores its role in a broader cycle expounding the secret essence and the great illusory net of tantric doctrine.

Just as the Bodhi tree now standing at Bodh Gayā neither is nor is not the same tree beneath which the Buddha attained awakening, so too this stupa is intended as the next generation of stupa — dependently arising according to the conditions of its environment, and ceaselessly proclaiming the Dharma for the benefit of all sentient beings.

May whoever encounters these words derive great benefit.
