Toh 578 in the Kangyur is a dhāraṇī text known in Tibetan as "Phags pa shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa brgyad stong pa'i gzungs," which can be rendered in English as the Dhāraṇī of the Noble Eight Thousand Verse Perfection of Wisdom, with a Sanskrit title reconstructable as something like Aṣṭasāhasrikāprajñāpāramitādhāraṇī. It belongs to the Perfection of Wisdom class of texts within the Kangyur and takes the form of a condensed dhāraṇī, or sacred incantation, associated with the celebrated Eight Thousand Verse Perfection of Wisdom sūtra. The text presents a short mantra formula whose recitation and memorization are said to confer the merit of holding the full Perfection of Wisdom scripture, while also purifying karmic obscurations and averting misfortune. As the opening lines make clear, this dhāraṇī follows directly upon a companion dhāraṇī linked to the Twenty-Five Thousand Verse Perfection of Wisdom, suggesting it belongs to a series of such condensed protective formulas associated with the major Prajñāpāramitā scriptures.

one will come to hold the twenty-five thousand verse Perfection of Wisdom. All karmic obscurations will be purified. The dhāraṇī of the noble twenty-five thousand verse Perfection of Wisdom is complete.

Homage to the Blessed One, the Mother, the Perfection of Wisdom. The dhāraṇī of the noble eight thousand verse Perfection of Wisdom is as follows:

Tadyathā: Oṃ Hrīḥ śruti smṛti vijaye svāhā, prajñāpāramitāye, sarva durgati śodhaya, rājāya svāhā.

By holding this, one will come to hold the eight thousand verse Perfection of Wisdom. All manner of bad omens will be averted. Karmic

Translator's Notes

- The passage is a colophon closing the dhāraṇī of the twenty-five thousand verse Perfection of Wisdom, immediately followed by the opening of a new dhāraṇī for the eight thousand verse Perfection of Wisdom. The mantra syllables are rendered in standard phonetic Sanskrit transliteration as they appear in the Tibetan phonetic transcription; the text breaks off mid-sentence at the end ("Karmic"), as it does in the source passage provided.
