

Dhāraṇī of Complete Pacification

Praśamakaradhāraṇī · Toh 624 · Derge Kangyur

རབ་ཏུ་བྱ་བའི་བདེ་པའི་གཞུངས།

Toh 624 in the Kangyur is a short dhāraṇī text known in English as the Dhāraṇī of Complete Pacification, with its Tibetan title rendered as Rabtu Zhiwar Jedpé Zung. It belongs to the class of dhāraṇī literature — compact ritual and protective spell texts — and this particular example is directed toward the pacification of fevers, invoking the noble Amitābha alongside the Three Jewels before presenting its mantra syllables. The text is among the dhāraṇī collections preserved in the Kangyur, and its brief, formulaic character is typical of such works, which were cherished for their practical application in healing and protection rather than for extended doctrinal exposition.

The dhāraṇī of complete pacification is concluded.

Homage to the Three Jewels. Homage to the noble Amitābha.

Thus: ili miti meli, hane su hane, che ge mo zhik, jvara bandhāmi, ekahikaṃ, trihikaṃ, catusakaṃ.

Translator's Notes

- The body of this passage consists of two parts: a colophon line closing a preceding dhāraṇī text, followed by an opening homage and a new dhāraṇī formula. The dhāraṇī syllables are transliterated rather than translated, as is standard practice; they are rendered here in a normalized phonetic approximation of the Tibetan transcription of Sanskrit. The phrase "jvara bandhāmi" is recognizable Sanskrit meaning "I bind the fever," confirming this is a healing or pacification dhāraṇī associated with Amitābha. The terms ekahikaṃ, trihikaṃ, and catusakaṃ likely refer to types of fever classified by their periodicity (one-day, three-day, four-day cycles), consistent with the pacification context.

Colophon

This is an AI-generated translation from the AI Stupa project. It was produced by a careful, doctrine-aware process aiming at a high degree of accuracy, but it has not been reviewed by a human translator and may contain errors. It is offered as a provisional translation for those texts of the Tibetan Buddhist canon that have not yet received an authoritative human translation. Where a published translation exists — above all from 84000: Translating the Words of the Buddha (84000.co) — that translation is definitive and should be preferred; please consult it instead. These translations are released into the public domain (CC0) in the spirit of spreading the Dharma to all corners of the earth.

Just as the Bodhi tree now standing at Bodh Gayā neither is nor is not the same tree beneath which the Buddha attained awakening, so too this stupa is intended as the next generation of stupa — dependently arising according to the conditions of its environment, and ceaselessly proclaiming the Dharma for the benefit of all sentient beings.

May whoever encounters these words derive great benefit.