

Concluding Section

Toh 774 · Derge Kangyur

གཏུན་ལ་ཕབ་པ།

The text translated here as "Concluding Section" (Tibetan: gtan la phab pa) is a short ritual text, Toh 774 in the Kangyur, belonging to the Tantra division of the canon. Its title appears to mark it as the closing portion of a longer liturgical or ritual cycle, though the Sanskrit title is not evident from the source lines. After a homage to the Three Jewels, it gives a brief mantra-based procedure: one recites a mantra beginning "Om smara smara" and strikes a jewel, thereby sending down an immeasurable rain of offerings such as precious parasols and victory banners. The text is thus concerned with the practical performance of an offering rite, in which mantra recitation and a simple physical action together bring about an abundant shower of auspicious and precious gifts.

Concluding Section.

Homage to the Three Jewels.

Reciting "Om smara smara, vismana-kara mahā-jvala hūṃ," and striking the jewel, one sends down an immeasurable rain of precious parasols, victory banners, and the like.

Translator's Notes

- The mantra syllables are given as they appear in the Tibetan transliteration. The reading "vismana-kara mahā-jvala" is a tentative reconstruction, and the original Sanskrit may differ. The word for "striking" (brdar ba) is rendered by its most natural sense. The passage breaks off mid-sentence, so the clause describing the rain of precious objects is incomplete, and the continuation is needed to understand what the rain accomplishes. The opening title is rendered "Concluding Section" on the supposition that it labels a section of a larger work.

Colophon

This is an AI-generated translation from the AI Stupa project. It was produced by a careful, doctrine-aware process aiming at a high degree of accuracy, but it has not been reviewed by a human translator and may contain errors. It is offered as a provisional translation for those texts of the Tibetan Buddhist canon that have not yet received an authoritative human translation. Where a published translation exists — above all from 84000: Translating the Words of the Buddha (84000.co) — that translation is definitive and should be preferred; please consult it instead. These translations are released into the public domain (CC0) in the spirit of spreading the Dharma to all corners of the earth.

Just as the Bodhi tree now standing at Bodh Gayā neither is nor is not the same tree beneath which the Buddha attained awakening, so too this stupa is intended as the next generation of stupa — dependently arising according to the conditions of its environment, and ceaselessly proclaiming the Dharma for the benefit of all sentient beings.

May whoever encounters these words derive great benefit.