Toh 866 · Derge Kangyur

This short text is a dhāraṇī, a protective incantation of the kind collected in the Tantra division of the Kangyur, and its title begins with the word for "Jewel" or "Rare and Supreme One" (dkon mchog), though the full Tibetan and Sanskrit titles cannot be determined from the fragment of the title line available here. It opens with homage to the Three Jewels, to the Tathāgata Padmanetra (Lotus Eye), and to the bodhisattva Sarvanīvaraṇaviṣkambhin, the one who clears away all obscurations, and then gives a mantra in the usual Sanskrit syllables followed by instructions for its use. The rite prescribes reciting the dhāraṇī one hundred and eight times each morning, promising that after twenty-one days all karmic obscurations will be exhausted, the five eyes will become completely pure, and disease, eye ailments in particular, will not arise. It is Toh 866 in the Kangyur, where it belongs to the Tantra section and is classed as a dhāraṇī, a short text whose main purpose is to supply a spoken formula together with the practice and benefits connected to it.

Homage to the Three Jewels. Homage to the Tathāgata, the arhat, the perfectly complete Buddha Padmanetra (Lotus Eye). Homage to the bodhisattva mahāsattva Sarvanīvaraṇaviṣkambhin.

Tadyathā: oṃ tara tara, tiri tiri, turu turu, kala kala, kili kili, kulu kulu, bhara bhara, bhiri bhiri, bhuru bhuru, bhaya bhaya, kuru kuru, sarva karma āvaraṇa jani meśa prabhaya svāhā. Jvalani vidhani vai svāhā. Kuru pañcali svāhā. Sāgara saṃvire svāhā. Sarva tathāgata adhiṣṭhite svāhā.

This is the rite for this dhāraṇī. If one rises in the morning and recites it one hundred and eight times, then once twenty-one days have passed, all obscurations of karma will be exhausted. The five eyes will also become completely pure. Eye disease will not arise for that person. Disease will not arise in the body. Faults of mind will not arise. The five eyes will also become completely pure. Likewise, the five purities of mind will also be attained. In every lifetime one will encounter the appearance of buddhas. Until one dwells at the seat of awakening, one will never be parted from seeing the buddhas, hearing the Dharma, honoring and serving the Saṅgha, and bringing all sentient beings to full maturity. The body will become beautiful. The mind will become clear and serene.

Here ends the noble dhāraṇī called Padmanetra.

Translator's Notes

- The mantra is given as transliterated in the Tibetan; some segments, notably "jani meśa prabhaya" and "vidhani vai," appear corrupted in transmission and their Sanskrit form is uncertain. "The five purities of mind" renders རྒྱལ་བའི་སེམས་དཔག་ཅན་ཀློང་།, whose exact referent is not specified in the text. The five eyes are the standard set of physical eye, divine eye, wisdom eye, Dharma eye, and buddha eye. The repetition of the sentence about the five eyes is in the source.

Just as the Bodhi tree now standing at Bodh Gayā neither is nor is not the same tree beneath which the Buddha attained awakening, so too this stupa is intended as the next generation of stupa — dependently arising according to the conditions of its environment, and ceaselessly proclaiming the Dharma for the benefit of all sentient beings.

May whoever encounters these words derive great benefit.
