Toh 539 · Derge Kangyur

Toh 539 in the Kangyur is a dhāraṇī text known in Tibetan as ཇོ་ཏྲུ་པེ་ཏྲིན་ (Chödpe Trin) and in Sanskrit as Pūjāmegha, meaning "Cloud of Offerings." It belongs to the class of dhāraṇī literature and presents a sequence of ritual dhāraṇī formulas for protection, homage, praise, and the consecration of offerings, with the promise that even a single recollection of the dhāraṇī suffices to obtain its benefits and ensure rebirth in the pure realm of Sukhāvatī. The text is a compact liturgical work, structured around successive mantra recitations each accompanied by a brief indication of their purpose, reflecting the practical devotional use typical of dhāraṇī collections within the Kangyur.

It protects, guards, and shelters. And after passing away from this life, one will be reborn in the world-realm of Sukhāvatī. These distinguishing qualities are obtained by merely recalling this dhāraṇī once, without having accomplished any other practice.

The dhāraṇī called "Cloud of Offerings" is complete.

Oṃ namo bhagavate ratna-ketu-rājāya, tathāgatāya, arhate samyaksaṃbuddhāya. Tadyathā: oṃ ratne ratne mahāratne ratna-vijaye svāhā. Reciting this eight times, one pays homage.

Namaḥ sarva-buddha-bodhisattvānāṃ. Sarva-tra saṃkusumitābhijñārāśinine namo 'stu svāhā. Reciting this eight times, one offers praise.

Oṃ sarva-tathāgata-pūjā-megha-prasara-samūha-spharaṇa imaṃ gaganakaṃ hūṃ. With this, one consecrates the offerings.

Namaḥ sarva-buddha-bodhisattvānāṃ. Sarvathā utgate spharaṇa imaṃ gaganakhaṃ samanta svāhā. Reciting this eight times, the cloud of offerings arises.

Namaḥ sarva-buddha-bodhisattvebhyaḥ. Sarva-vita-pūra-pūra, avartā abhaye svāhā. By reciting this, one makes offerings to all the Tathāgatas, and performs prostration with the crown of one's head at their feet and those of their attendants.

I bow to the Three Jewels. Oṃ smara smara, viśvanaskara mahājvala hūṃ. Reciting this while holding a precious jewel —

Translator's Notes

- The text ends mid-sentence with "while holding a precious jewel," indicating that this is a fragment and the passage cuts off. The full instruction for what is to be done while reciting that final mantra and holding the jewel is not present in the supplied text.

The mantra "Namaḥ sarva-buddha-bodhisattvāṇāṃ sarva-tra saṃkusumitābhijñārāśinine" is a somewhat compressed or non-standard form; the rendering follows the syllables as given without emendation.

Just as the Bodhi tree now standing at Bodh Gayā neither is nor is not the same tree beneath which the Buddha attained awakening, so too this stupa is intended as the next generation of stupa — dependently arising according to the conditions of its environment, and ceaselessly proclaiming the Dharma for the benefit of all sentient beings.

May whoever encounters these words derive great benefit.
